

FLORIDA

Tallahassee Marathon

Sunday, February 2, 2014 • Tallahassee, FL

Marathon/Ultra number:	208
State (first in state):	30 (yes)
Finish Time:	3:31:24
Overall Place:	60 of 358
Gender Place:	47 of 205
Age Group Place:	9th
Age on race day:	33

I chose to run the Tallahassee Marathon for Florida because it's the state capitol and I could double it with a half marathon near Tampa.

After running the Best Damn Half Marathon in Safety Harbor, Florida I drove to Tallahassee.

It was overcast and the temperature was about 65 degrees, but the humidity was at 90%. This caused me to struggle some on what was otherwise a pretty flat and easy course.

I started out fast and settled into a pace that I was able to maintain for most of the race. I hit the half way point at 1:43. At that point I decided I better just run a pace that I could maintain and finish strong.

I managed to run a 1:48 second half. I just missed breaking 3:30 with a time of 3:31:24, but I didn't really care.

I drove south to Gainesville and watched the Super Bowl that evening in my motel room. The next day I flew home.

